"Justice for the world's poor"

The corporate trade power-grab

International corporations are intensifying their efforts to achieve new-style trade-deal terms. They aim to get rid of democratically decided protections for people and the planet – just because these safeguards stop them making even bigger profits!

Corruption, censorship and repressiveness in high places just make this easier for them, and are therefore key challenges for the people's fight-back.

Come and hear some impressive stories of unrelenting courage, determination and organisation, and how Global Justice Now! is working in solidarity from our campaign base in the UK.

Dorothy Grace Guerrero

Dorothy is highly qualified to lead an excellent half-day workshop on how people's movements in South-East Asia are refusing to accept these corporate pressures. She is originally from the Philippines, and has also lived in Thailand and South Africa. She is currently Head of Policy at Global Justice Now's national office.

Global Justice Now!

We are a democratic social justice organisation working as part of a global movement to challenge the powerful and create a more just and equal world. We mobilise people in the UK for change, and act in solidarity with those fighting injustice, particularly in the global south.

Global Justice Sheffield is one of dozens of local groups across the UK, combining to have a real impact for ending poverty and injustice. We lobby MPs and corporations, organise public meetings, publish an e-newsletter, do street actions, and put on stalls at local events.

And the more members we have, the more effective we can be! We meet at Quaker Meeting House on the first Thursday of the month, 7–9, and newcomers are especially welcome to attend.
